Brenda Frese
Head Coach

Arizona '93
Ninth Year At Maryland
12th Year Overall

There was no better fit for the University of Maryland women's basketball team than head coach Brenda Frese. The 2002 Associated Press National Coach of the Year arrived in College Park with great expectations and has not disappointed. Reviving a once-prominent women's basketball program back to the national stage, her high work rate and positive attitude have resulted in seven top-10 recruiting classes and a national championship in 2006. Frese has balanced that strong work ethic with a fun and family-friendly environment, also becoming a wife and a mother of twin boys, giving birth to them in the midst of one of the most successful seasons in the program's history. With the birth of her twins in February 2008, she becomes one of only six coaches to win a national championship and be a parent.

Since her first season at the helm, when the team won just 10 games, Frese has guided Maryland to a national championship in 2006, seven winning seasons, six straight 20-win seasons, including three 30-win campaigns, and six consecutive trips to the NCAA Tournament. In 2006-07, Maryland also received its first-ever No. 1 preseason national ranking, remaining in the top spot in the polls for 10 consecutive weeks.

Former Athletics Director Deborah A. Yow courted the 2002 Associated Press National Coach of the Year because of Frese's reputation for making amazing turnarounds and her relentless work ethic with recruiting. Standing atop the podium in Boston in 2006, Frese became the fifth-youngest coach in NCAA history to win a national title and only the ninth to win on her first trip to the Final Four.

Despite claiming eight ACC Tournament titles, Maryland's program advanced to new heights when Frese arrived. In her second season, she led Maryland to a tie for third in the ACC standings, its highest finish since 1996-97. In 2007-08, the Terrapins earned their highest ACC Tournament seeding in 15 years, winning a school record-tying 13 league games.

Frese's players have received numerous ACC honors. In 2008, Crystal Langhorne was selected the ACC's Player of the Year, only the second Terrapin all-time to receive the honor, and the first in nearly 20 years. In 2005, she was the program's first ACC Rookie of the Year since 1991, and following in her footsteps, Marissa Coleman also nabbed the rookie honor during the Terps' championship campaign in 2006. Kristi Toliver was named ACC Player of the Year in 2009 and Junior Lynetta Kizer, was named Freshman of the Year that year as well.

In all, 17 Terps have been named to the All-ACC team in Frese's six years, including a school-record four in 2008, when Langhorne, Coleman, Kristi Toliver and Laura Harper were selected. Four Terps have been first-team selections five times. Langhorne became Maryland's first three-time, first-team all-conference selection and the first to be named to the All-ACC team four times. Shay Doron, Frese's first Maryland recruit in College Park, and Coleman, were two of four Terrapins all-time to earn all-conference honors three times. Doron was the first freshman in school history to be named All-ACC in 2004. Nine of Frese's players have been named to the All-ACC Freshman Team.

Several Terps have also garnered national recognition under Frese. Toliver became the first Terrapin to earn the highest point guard honor in the country, winning the Nancy Lieberman Award in 2008, after being a finalist the previous year. Last season, Toliver and Coleman were both named Associated Press All-Americans and earned spots on the State Farm Coaches' All-American team. Both were named finalists for the Wooden Award.

Tina Langley
Assistant Coach

West Alabama '96
Third Year at Maryland
12th Year Overall

Tina Langley is in her third season at the University of Maryland and 12th in coaching overall. Langley made an instant impact her first season with the Terps. She served a crucial role in helping to lead the Terps to their first ACC Championship in 20 seasons and helped secure one of the nation's top recruiting class for 2010.

As Coach Frese's top assistant, Langley's responsibilities include coordinating the Terps' recruiting efforts, assisting in player development, scouting, and on the court coaching.

"Tina jumped right in and made a huge impact for us last season. Her work-ethic is nothing short of stellar, she has an excellent demeanor with our student-athletes, and she has an exceptional ability to take on many roles and responsibilities," said head coach Brenda Frese, "She possesses all the characteristics we need in a coach to make a positive impact on our recruiting efforts, player development, and our program as a whole. I'm looking forward to working by her side again this season."

In addition to her passion, determination, and work ethic, Langley has significant coaching experience. Prior to arriving in College Park in 2008, she had coaching stints at Toledo, Clemson and Georgia. She has been instrumental in recruiting, game preparation and floor management in each of her stops.

Langley spent five seasons at the University of Toledo, beginning her coaching career with the Rockets as a graduate assistant coach in 1998-99, before moving up to recruiting coordinator and eventual associate head coach during the 2002-03 campaign. She helped the Rockets reach the postseason three times, including two NCAA Tournament appearances. During her tenure, Toledo also won three Mid-American Conference regular season titles (1999, 2001, 2003) and two conference tournament crowns (1999 and 2001).

At Toledo, Langley was responsible for all facets of the program, including recruiting, scouting of opponents and coordinating the team's academic efforts. She helped to sign two nationally ranked classes, the Rockets accumulated a 101-38 record (.679) during her time, and the team's grade point average was ranked in the top 10 in the nation three times. On the floor, she worked directly with players who went on to be selected the team's Most Improved Player in 2001, 2002 and 2003.

Langley then joined the women's basketball staff at Clemson in 2003, under legendary head coach Jim Davis. In her two years with the Tigers, the team advanced to the 2004 Women's National Invitational Tournament (WNIT) while also orchestrating a CU-record six-signee class, which was ranked in the top 30 nationally in just her first season.

After her stop at Clemson, Langley was hired at the University of Georgia as the recruiting coordinator. Langley left coaching for a couple years and earned her second master's in Community Counseling from the University of Alabama, specializing in college mental health. She was named the Most Outstanding Graduate Student in 2008.

Langley played basketball and volleyball for two seasons at Bevill State Junior College before transferring to the University of West Alabama, where she lettered twice in basketball as a guard/forward. She graduated from UWA with a degree in special education in 1996, and earned her first master's degree in Recreation and Leisure with an emphasis in recreation administration from the University of Toledo.

Langley resides in Laurel, Md.

David Adkins is in his second season at Maryland, joining the Terrapins in June 2009 after a successful career in the high school ranks working with some of the best players in the country. He has helped more than 50 players earn college scholarships, including 41 Division I scholarships.

"David Adkins is one of the most highly-regarded player-development coaches in all of basketball and we are incredibly fortunate to have gained his services," Maryland head coach Brenda Frese said. "I first got to know David through (former Terrapin) Marissa Coleman and (Maryland men's basketball player) Greivis Vasquez, who rave about him. He's been a big part of some incredible basketball programs and he brings tremendous energy and knowledge."

Adkins joined the Terrapins after spending the last 16 years as a high school assistant coach, but his coaching laurels reach far beyond the prep ranks. Widely known in basketball circles as an elite developer of talent, Adkins has helped ripen the games of two NBA players and trained many more, two McDonald's All-Americans, three Jordan All-Americans, three Maryland Gatorade Players of the Year, four Parade All-Americans and three Washington Post Players of the Year during his time teaching the game as a high school assistant, camp counselor and in private workouts. Additionally, Adkins has trained several high-profile European professionals, including former Maryland standout Nik Caner-Medley.

Over the course of his career, he has helped develop NBA and Division I talent such as Kevin Durant (Oklahoma City Thunder), Linas Kleiza (Denver Nuggets), Austin Freeman (Georgetown), Jeff Peterson (Arkansas) and Jerai Grant (Clemson).

Adkins, a 1989 graduate of Radford University, also served as an assistant coach for Team USA at the 2006 19-U Nike World Championships and during the 2007 Capital Classic in College Park.

He most recently coached for three years at legendary high school power DeMatha Catholic in Hyattsville, Md., helping the Stags claim two conference titles and two city titles while compiling a record of 83-20. Prior to his stint at DeMatha, Adkins spent seven seasons as an assistant at nationally-acclaimed Montrose Christian High School in Rockville, Md. During his tenure, Montrose Christian was ranked No. 1 in The Washington Post final poll in 2003, 2005 and 2006 where it finished in the USA Today Top-10 each of those years.

In total, Montrose Christian finished in the top-25 of the USA Today poll in five of Adkins' seven seasons at the school.

Adkins' camp experience includes the Nike All-Asia Camp in Beijing (counselor), the Nike Basketball Power Factory Tryout and Training Camp in Beijing (coach), the Five Star Basketball Camp in Caloforte, Italy (camp director), the Chris Paul Elite Backcourt Camp, the Snow Valley Basketball Camp, the Nike All-American Camp (coach) and the Nike Hoop Jamboree Camp (coach).

Adkins resides in Ashburn, Va., with his wife, Janet, and two daughters Ryland and Camryn.

Second Year at Maryland
13th Year Overall

Marlin Chinn joined Brenda Frese's coaching staff in June 2009 following a successful four-year stint at Seton Hall, where he spent the last three seasons as the Pirates' top assistant and recruiting coordinator.

"We have always been about family first here at Maryland and it's pretty special to bring Marlin back home," Frese said. "This is where he wants to be and he already knows why Maryland is an incredible place. As we got to know each other, we quickly found Marlin shares common traits with us - loyalty, work ethic, care and concern for people and he is a tremendous recruiter. We feel as though Marlin will help us continue to set the bar high for excellence here at Maryland. We're excited to welcome him to our family."

In Chinn's second season on Phyllis Mangina's staff at Seton Hall, the Pirates posted their first winning record in Big East play in six years en route to a 13-win improvement from the previous season. During his tenure at Seton Hall, Chinn helped secure a top-30 national recruiting class in 2007, recruited a pair of All-Big East Rookie Team selections as well as recruiting and coaching two All-Big East performers.

The Archbishop Carroll High School alum previously spent seven seasons at Mount St. Mary's from 1998-2005, serving as top assistant for The Mount. There, he recruited five Northeast Conference All-Rookie Team choices, including the 2005 NEC Rookie of the Year. Chinn helped lead Mount St. Mary's to a pair of NEC regular-season titles in 1999 and 2001.

Prior to landing on the college scene, Chinn served as assistant men's high school coach locally at Theodore Roosevelt High School (1997-98) and Archbishop Carroll High School (1994-97).

Chinn is a member of both the Black Coaches Association (BCA) and the Women's Basketball Coaches Association (WBCA). He was recently selected into the 2007 BCA Achieving Coaching Excellence (ACE) for ethnic minority male and female basketball coach's class.

A 1992 graduate of Hampton University, Chinn is familiar with the area and is a native of Washington, D.C. Chinn graduated from Hampton with a B.S. in accounting. Chinn served as president of the National Association of Black Accountants in 1992. Chinn currently resides in Largo, Md.

Chris Campbell

Duke '96

Maryland Women's Basketball head coach Brenda Frese welcomed Chris Campbell as the new Director of Operations in the summer of 2010. Campbell was an assistant coach at University of Delaware from 2008-10 and is a Maryland native.

"We feel very fortunate to be able to hire someone of Chris' caliber," said Frese. "He's very bright and really going to bring a lot to our program. His local ties are a bonus; he'll be another member of our staff that brings even more people into supporting our program."

While at Delaware, Campbell assisted head coach Tina Martin in recruiting, game plan preparation, practice plans, video, academic performance and more. He has earned a reputation as a tireless worker and is well versed in all aspects of the game.

"It is a thrill to join the Maryland Basketball staff," said Campbell. "Coach Frese is one of the best in the business, and I look forward to learning from her and the rest of her staff. He thinks his playing days are over.

What he doesn't know is that University of Maryland Orthopaedics, where they handle the most complicated joint replacement surgeries, will replace his hip. He doesn't know that they offer a comprehensive approach from an experienced team of orthopaedic surgeons, anesthesiologists, nurses, physical therapists and occupational therapists. He hasn't learned that they'll be with him through his post-surgery rehabilitation and recovery, or that while he may play differently, he'll definitely play again.

Terrapin Spirit Squad

The Terrapin Spirit Squad, under the direction of seventh-year head coach Jamie Little, is an integral part of the pageantry and excitement of Maryland Athletics! This group of students joins the University's marching band to form the core of Maryland Terrapin spirit.

During the fall season, the squad supports Maryland football at both home and away games, as well as postseason bowl events. In addition, during the late fall and winter seasons, the Terrapin Spirit Squad supports both the men's and the women's basketball teams at all home games and joins them on the road at the ACC and NCAA tournaments. In the spring, the Spirit Squad competes at the National Cheerleading Association (NCA) Collegiate National Championship in Daytona Beach, Fla.

Aside from practice, games and competing, the team also participates in many other events for the University, including the Alumni Association, the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and various other charities.

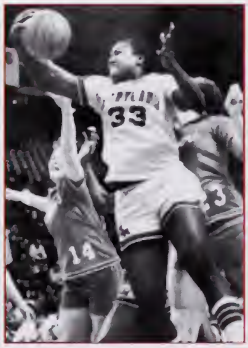
Weller on Lytle:
"Debbie was one of the greatest athletes I've ever seen or coached. She could have been a point guard on a men's college team."

A versatile guard, Lytle remains at or near the top of several Maryland offensive records ... one of only 22 Terps to achieve the 1,000 point plateau, finishing with 1,189 points ... holds the Maryland record for most steals in her career (315) and in a single game (9, twice) ... also tops the Maryland all-time list for most assists in her career (583) ... averaged six assists per game during the NCAA Tournament, a team record ... member of the 1981 Kodak All-Region team and E.A.I.A.W. All-Region team ... member of the 1980 All-ACC Tournament Team ... a leader of the 1982 Final Four team, she was named to the NCAA West Regional All-Tournament team that season ... tallied 53 points, 32 rebounds and 32 assists during the Terps' first Final Four run ... also saw significant time at the small forward position.



Jasmina Perazic #4
WBCA All-America: 1983
6-1, Guard-Foward
Novisad, Yugoslavia
Lettered: 1980-83

Weller on Perazic:
"Jas is a savvy person on and off the court. She had the ability to score in any situation and she has demonstrated that superiority at all levels of play - collegiate and international."

One of the leaders of the 1982 Final Four team, Perazic led the team in scoring that year with 441 points and a .565 shooting percentage ... co-MVP of the 1983 ACC Tournament, in which the Terps defeated NC State, 84-81, to take the title ... also named to the All-ACC Tournament team in 1982 ... ranks tenth on the Terrapins' all-time scoring list, pouring in 1,393 points during her career ... her .860 free throw percentage for the 1981-82 season stood at the Maryland standard for 14 years ... named to the All-West Regional Team during the 1982 NCAA Tournament ... participated in the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow with Yugoslavia ... played in the inaugural campaign of the WNBA as a member of the 1997 New York Liberty.

Weller on Bullett:
"Those that saw Vicky play recognize her outstanding skill and athleticism. Those that work and play with Vicky know these are only a small part of what makes her special."

Named the 1989 ACC Player of the Year, Bullett led the Terps to their second NCAA Final Four while also playing her way to the top of many of Maryland's record lists ... that total was helped by a record 686 points in her senior campaign of 1988-89, one of only four players in school history to score 600 points in a season ... was the first player in school history to register two 500-point seasons ... scored 30 or more points on seven occasions, with her highest total coming at Penn State on January 14, 1987, when she tallied 36 ... also tops the Maryland all-time list with 968 career rebounds ... first team All-ACC in 1988, in addition to her 1989 MVP campaign ... took home the MVP of the 1989 ACC Tournament, which the Terps captured with a 73-57 victory over NC State ... also named to the All-ACC Tournament team in her freshman year of 1986 ... named to the All-Mideast Region team of the 1988 NCAA Tournament and the All-West Region team in 1989 ... Frese on Langhorne:
"When we raised Crystal's name and number to the rafters at Comcast Center, it was a fitting end to her time at Maryland, and with over 15,000 fans there to cheer her and witness it, it made us very proud. One only had to look around at the crowd that day to understand what Crystal and her teammates had built in a very short time here at Maryland. A true All-American, both athletically and academically, Crystal truly earned her place among the game's greats."

1978 Team

The traditions of greatness, work ethic and talent have been with Maryland women's basketball for years. In 1978, the college basketball world met the Terrapins who took the exciting road to the top.

"Well we knew we were going to be good," head coach at that time Chris Weller said. "I think people at Maryland and around the program knew we would be good, but the rest of country didn't."

The 1977-78 Terrapins knew they had the talent to be good, but they didn't enter the season as a team most around country thought would advance to the AIAW title game against UCLA.

"A group that special has to be talented, but it also has to have a special ingredient that makes the team greater," Weller said. "That attribute is being good people who love being dedicated to the sport and getting better athletically, as well as being good teammates."

At that point in time, Maryland wasn't a top program in country. The Atlantic Coast Conference wasn't known then either. Then, teams competed in the AIAW tournament at the end of the year and mostly identified with regions instead of conferences.

Led by Hall of Fame player Tara Heiss, the Terrapins earned an overall record of 27-4 on the year and the school's first ACC title. They opened the season with an 11-game win streak, including a win over eventual national championship opponent UCLA 92-88.

On Feb. 11, the Terps won the ACC title at the annual tournament in Charlottesville, Va., beating Duke, Clemson and North Carolina State along the way.

The Terrapins went 5-1 to close out the rest of the regular season. They hosted the first rounds of the EAIAW Regional tournament in College Park. The Terps topped both Penn and Rutgers to advance to the next round of the EAIAW in West Chester, Pa. First, they beat Immaculata 80-79, to move on to face Montclair State. Maryland fell to Montclair State, but the Terps' 3-1 record in the tournament helped them advance to the national AIAW tournament for the first time in school history.

Awaiting them in the first round was top-ranked Tennessee.

"We were seeded last, and we beat the No. 1 team, Tennessee," Weller said.

Maryland beat Tennessee 75-69 in Cleveland, Miss. to stay alive. Up next, the Terrapins had to face Southern Connecticut. They beat Southern Connecticut 93-53 to stay standing as one of the AIAW's final four teams.

The Terrapins were flown out to Los Angeles, Calif. for the big event.

"We had never flown and for most of us, including myself, it was our first trip ever to the West Coast," Weller said. "I made the team touch the Pacific Ocean.

In their first game in Los Angeles, the Terps beat Wayland Baptist 90-85 to advance to the national title game against UCLA.

The Terrapins fell against UCLA, but the experience and the memories are still extraordinary for all that were a part of it.

Meet the Rebounders

The Maryland women's basketball team has quite the team behind it. The Rebounders, the official support group of the Terps, has been giving the Terrapins backing for over 30 years. The members of the group take trips to away games, celebrate special occasions with Coach Frese and the team, and enjoy quality time with the Terps.

In 1979, year after the Terrapins' first trip to the AIAW tournament and national title game, former head coach Chris Weller felt the need to start an organized support group for the program. She called upon some of the team's most devoted and loyal fans, Mary Lucas, John Nevros, and Emory Harman for help.

"They were some of our long-standing supporters," Weller said. "They totally embraced my request to organize a group."

Lucas, a graduate of the University of Maryland and a teacher in the area, was thrilled to support a program like Maryland women's basketball.

"I just love basketball," Lucas said. "I supported the team for years."

In the beginning, the Rebounders membership trickled in. Gradually, after the first year the Terps had over 100 members.

In 1983, the group held a picnic to decide on a board, leaders and what role the Rebounders would play for Maryland women's basketball. The formal structure for the group was set up, and its first officers were elected. The President would be Lucas, John Nevros would act as Vice President, Diana Lahm would be Secretary and Harman would be the treasurer. Just a couple weeks later, John Nevros resigned from his office but promised his continued support and input. The slot was filled by Angela Domanico, who still works for the University.

"Rebounders bring a connection of the program to the community, as well as to the campus," Weller said.

The time and energy the Rebounders give to the team does not go unnoticed. Players know how hard they work to show support.

Sharma Wright, a former player at Maryland, is now a Rebounders member and helps with the group's website.

"They started many of the traditions that still continue today: road trips, socials, scrapbooks, fund raising, T-shirts, tailgates, the annual trip to the ACC tournament, and the annual banquet," Wright said.

"As a coach, the Rebounders bring a level of confidence to the team," Weller said. "When you're a player and you play in front of great fans, it feels really good. It validates what you're working so hard on. It shows that people really do care."

To date, the Rebounders have grown significantly. They have many events and fundraisers throughout the year.

"We have added summer events to our itinerary - Mystic's games, a crab feast, an August Musicale, and the annual mini-golf day. This season we added 'Spread The Spirit' - an initiative for Rebounders to support other Maryland women's athletic teams," Wright said. "The events have evolved and grown through the years, and we now boast approximately 300 in membership."

Scout Team

By Max Boton

As a freshman at the University of Maryland I was always looking for fun and challenging extracurricular activities to fill my schedule. I played basketball throughout high school and was looking for the best way to continue playing competitively in a well-organized manner. Through favorable circumstances I discovered the Maryland women's basketball scout team and have been an active participant during each regular season, off-season, and summer workouts.

I can barely begin to express my gratitude for being able to practice with this team on a daily basis. Not only is it a physical challenge to have to compete in each and every drill, but there is also an equally important mental component. Every practice the coaches teach us a different offensive system and give us guidelines as to what screens to set and many other offensive and defensive concepts. Not only do we study the different styles of opposing teams, but we also learn and do our best to imitate the specific tendencies of opposing players. Some of my favorite and most fun days at practice were when I played as the dominant LSU center, Sylvia Fowles, or the sharp shooting Duke guard Abby Waner. Also, every day before practice the coaches teach us specific plays that the opposing team would run. I hope that my height (6'6), my basketball skill set, and my effort has helped to build the confidence and ability of the players that compete day in and day out.

As a freshman I had the opportunity to play against the likes of all-time Maryland greats such as Crystal Langhorne, Laura Harper, Marissa Coleman, and Kristi Toliver. Over the years the faces have changed, but head coach Brenda Frese has been here throughout and has given me the opportunity of a lifetime. Coach Frese helped me get into graduate school by submitting a letter of recommendation, and by observing her individual and team coaching I feel I will be immensely more prepared for when I coach basketball in the near future. I cannot imagine being at Maryland without the scout team experience.

What we do as the scout team for the University of Maryland's women's basketball team is pretty basic: we play against them in practice to get them prepared for the rigors of the ACC and national schedule. What we do is also play against them every day in practices so that when it's game time, they feel as if they played harder competition in practice and in turn, that makes the games easier for them to play in. We run sets from many different teams nationally so that the girls will know everything about an opponent before they have to play them. We are important to the program because if we weren't there helping them, they wouldn't be able to work on as much material as the coaches need to for a game. With us being there, we can help all the girls of what type of team they are going to be facing in the next game. The biggest thrill for me would be the finished product, watching a game in which they are 100% prepared and that they win, and we feel good about ourselves because we helped play a role in that process.

Wallace Loh
University President

Wallace D. Loh became the 28th president of the University of Maryland on November 1, 2010. With more than 30 years of experience in higher education, Loh will provide leadership to the university's 37,000 students, 12 colleges and schools, and 9,000 members of the faculty and staff, as well as management of its $1.6 billion operating budget.

Prior to coming to Maryland, Loh served as executive vice president and provost of the University of Iowa (2008-2010) – with oversight responsibilities for budgets, personnel, and planning in the university's 11 colleges and other academic units. The university enrolls 30,000 students and employs 4,895 faculty members and maintains a total budget of $2.8 billion (FY 2011).

Loh also oversaw the implementation of the university's strategic plan that emphasizes focused excellence in research and graduate education, expanded undergraduate enrollment and student success, internationalization and diversity, and partnerships with community colleges. With his oversight, Iowa increased the number of honor, minority, and international students; improved retention; expanded international exchanges; and increased administrative efficiencies and effectiveness.

Before joining The University of Iowa, Loh served as dean and professor of public service and psychology at Seattle University (1999-2008), director of policy and chief policy adviser for the State of Washington's Office of the Governor (1997-99), vice chancellor for academic affairs and dean of faculties at the University of Colorado-Boulder (1995-97), and dean and professor of law at the University of Washington Law School (1990-95).

During his service in Washington state government, Loh assembled and staffed then-Governor Gary Locke's blue-ribbon "2020 Commission on the Future of Postsecondary Education." Locke is currently the U.S. Secretary of Commerce. The Commission's work led to the implementation of the "Washington Promise Scholarship," expanding affordable access to higher education to thousands of low- and middle-income students.

Loh was born in Shanghai, China. He immigrated with his family to Lima, Peru, graduated from high school there, and immigrated alone to Iowa in 1961. He holds a J.D. from Yale Law School, a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor, an M.A. in psychology from Cornell University, and a B.A. in psychology from Grinnell College.

Among his distinctions and awards are his election as president of the Association of American Law Schools, the 1993 National Asian-Pacific American Bar Association's "Trailblazer Award," and honorary degrees from Grinnell College and Iowa Wesleyan College. The students of the University of Washington Law School named him "Outstanding Professor of the Year."

Active in his communities, Loh serves on Iowa Wesleyan College's Board of Trustees. He also has served on the visiting board of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle and the education committee of the Seattle Opera.

Loh and his wife Barbara have been married for 25 years. They have a daughter, Andrea, who is in college.

Kevin Anderson
Director of Athletics

COLLEGE PARK, Md. – Kevin Anderson was hired as the new director of athletics at the University of Maryland, Acting President Nariman Farvardin and President-Designate Dr. Wallace Loh announced on Sept. 4.

Anderson came to Maryland from the United States Military Academy, where he directed Army's athletics department since 2004. At Army, Anderson was responsible for a 25-sport program that served more than 900 cadet-athletes.

"We conducted an extensive national search which was rigorous and insightful, and I am grateful for the dedication and commitment of the search committee, especially its Chair, Linda Clement. The search committee worked extremely hard and, in the final hour, Dr. Loh and I were in complete agreement that Kevin was the best person to lead Maryland Athletics," said Farvardin.

"Kevin has built a solid program of competitive and academic success at the U.S. Military Academy, supporting the student-athlete and demonstrating that academics and athletics can go hand in hand," said Dr. Loh. "I am convinced that his leadership will raise Maryland Athletics to even greater heights. We are delighted to welcome Kevin into the Terrapin family."

Anderson replaced Deborah A. Yow, who led the Maryland department of athletics for 16 years. She left this summer to become the athletics director at North Carolina State University.

"Today is a new day at the University of Maryland. I am excited and looking forward to building an incredible team," said Anderson. "That was the main thing when President Loh called me, he talked about me being a part of his team. That's what sold me right away because that's how I grew up in athletics, my family and in everything else. It's always been about the team. I definitely am glad to be part of your team and the University of Maryland's team. Trust me, you've done good and great things, but we're going to do better and greater things.

"My passion, my calling for athletics is driven by developing student-athletes. I am committed to our student-athletes and will do whatever it takes to have them be successful in the classroom, on the field and in the community. Our ultimate goal, and I stress our ultimate goal, is to provide productive citizens for our country."

While at Army, Anderson helped develop and manage a budget of $25 million and turned an operating deficit of more than a million dollars into a $2.73 million surplus in only five years. Sponsorship, ticket sales and fund-raising revenue have all increased during his time there.

Anderson led a team that negotiated a five-year, $55 million deal with CBS to televise the Army-Navy game, and worked on the agreement that will bring college football to Yankee Stadium, beginning this season with the Army-Notre Dame game. During his time at West Point, Anderson also brokered broadcast deals for Army's football program with ESPN, WABC Radio and its current five-year agreement with CBS College Sports Network.

On the field, Anderson led a broad-based resurgence that saw 20 teams earn berths in NCAA Championships, including programs in 10 different sports. Army improved its standing in the 2009-10 Learfield Sports Directors' Cup by 11 places, marking its highest showing since the 2004-05 season and finishing ahead of both its service-academy rivals Navy and Air Force.

In the last two years, Anderson led searches that resulted in the hiring of Rich Ellerson as Army's football coach and Zach Spiker as the program's men's basketball coach. In his first season, Ellerson led the Black Knights to their winningest season since 1996 and came just one victory from a bowl berth, while Spiker posted the most wins by a first-year Army coach since Bob Knight led the Black Knights. Another Anderson hire, Michelle DePolo, was named the 2010 Patriot League Softball Coach of the Year in her first season. In all, four coaches hired during Anderson's tenure were honored with league coach of the year awards in 2009-10.

A number of facilities improvements have been made during his tenure at Army. The Foley Athletic Center, Army's indoor practice facility, was completed in 2007. That joined the construction of Randall Hall, which houses coaches' offices and locker rooms for Army's men's and women's basketball teams, as well as luxury suites overlooking Michie Stadium. Anderson oversaw the installation a new playing surface and a state-of-the-art high-definition video board in its football home. Anderson also spearheaded facility-improvement projects that included new practice fields, renovations for the baseball and softball complexes and an indoor practice facility for golf.

Anderson, who has more than two decades of leadership experience, has also been recognized nationally as a leader in intercollegiate athletics. He is the second vice president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA). He has served as chair for the NACDA's McClendon Minority Scholarship Steering Committee and serves as chair of the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball Issues Committee.

From January 2003 to December 2004, Anderson was the executive associate athletics director at Oregon State. In that role, he was responsible for the administration and operation of seven sports, including football, as well as men's and women's basketball.

Anderson spent five seasons at the University of California, Berkeley, advancing quickly in the Golden Bears' department. He moved from an assistant A.D. for annual giving to an associate A.D. for development and ticketing and ended his tenure there as the executive associate A.D. for external affairs.

Before taking the position with California, Anderson served as executive director of the YMCA of the East Bay from 1995 to 1997. He was director of annual giving for athletics at Stanford University from 1993 to 1995.

He is a 1979 graduate of San Francisco State University with a bachelor's degree in political science. He has attended the Sports Management Institute's executive management program and is a product of the new manager school at Xerox.

Anderson and his wife, Moira, have four children – daughters, Olivia and Michaela, and sons, Kevin Jr. and Chauncey.
